A fund worth waiting for....

Templar Vintners – WARNING UNAUTHORISED BY THE GFSC

As you know The Vinum Fine Wine Fund PCC Limited provides a unique investment opportunity. A beneficial investment opportunity such as our own can be coveted by competitors and several companies within the wine trade have been working on replicating this, but without the knowledge and foresight of our leaders and experts that are involved, benefits unfortunately have suffered during the recession and some have suffered great losses.

That said however, some competitors will go to great lengths and use unsolicited means to imitate for an opportunity for personal gain.

In recent weeks we have been notified by a well know journalist in the wine industry - Jim Budd, who investigates dubious wine related companies, that one company has embarked on doing just that; Templar Vintners.

It appears that Templar Vintners have doctored the details of an advertisement created by The Vinum Fine Wine Fund PCC Limited published in the FT in May 2008. Templar Vintners have reused the advertisement, removing all reference to The Vinum Fine Wine Fund PCC Limited and replacing it with their own details, retaining The Vinum Fine Wine Fund's investment details and cell details including registration....

Through investigation, evidence has been provided by the GFSC, the Financial Authorities of Guernsey, that Templar Vintners are unauthorised, and action, of course, has been taken. The GFSC has issued a warning on their website regarding this issue, please see link here.
